Angel

Brief description: One of four angel cinquefoils from rose window designed by John Hungerford Pollen and made by James Powell and Sons, 1863.

One of four angel cinquefoils (five-lobed panel) from a rose window designed by John Hungerford Pollen (ELYGM:1976.8). This one depicts a winged angel, haloed, as a particularly baby-faced young girl in modern-looking dress emerging from clouds, hands in prayer. Unlike the other angels, this one's face, hair, and hands are painted on white glass. She faces forward, with cream robes, an orange halo, and red and cream wings. Behind her is a simple background, foils with plain green glass and thin borders. Her face and garments show Pre-Raphaelite influence.
