

Woman Gathering Sheaves of Corn

Brief description: Stained glass panel depicting a woman gathering sheaves of corn. Designed and made by Francis Spear pre war, between 1930-1939.
